NOTIFICATIONS

Fort St George, March 24, 1909.

No 35.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 6, sub-section (1), clause (a) of the Indian Ports Act, 1908 (XV of 1908), the Governor in Council is pleased to make the following revised rule for enforcing and regulating the use of signals and signal lights by vessels by day and by night in the ports of the Madras Presidency.

The Master of any vessel arriving within the port with ammunition, explosives, or over 100 lb. in weight of gunpowder on board as cargo, shall display a red flag B of the International Code at the fore during daylight, and between sunset and sunrise shall exhibit when at anchor a white light over three red lights hoisted in a vertical line one over the other not less than three feet apart for such time as the ammunition, explosives or gunpowder may be on board within port limits

No. 36.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 6, sub-section (1), clause (p) of the Indian Ports Act, 1908 (XV of 1908), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Governor in Council is pleased to make the following rules :—

Section 1.—For the giving of notice.

1. The Master of every vessel on board of which there is, or has been during the previous twelve days, either among the passengers or crew, any case of cholera, small-pox, measles, chicken-pox, or other dangerous infectious or contagious disease declared by the Governor-General in Council to be common in India, or, in the case of a vessel not carrying a doctor, any death from any cause, shall report every such case or death to the pilot or other boarding officer at the earliest opportunity.

2. In the absence of a pilot or other boarding officer, or if the vessel be at anchor within port limits, when such death occurs or such disease first breaks out, the Master of every vessel shall hoist a signal which shall be, from sunrise to sunset, flag * L of the Commercial Code, and from sunset to sunrise a triangle of lights, which shall be arranged at a distance of not less than six feet apart, white at the apex and red at the base.

* This is a square flag of yellow and black boxes quarterly.

In the case of a vessel which is "infected", "suspected" or "healthy" as defined in the Madras Plague regulations for the inspection of inward-bound vessels, the Master shall signal the fact immediately to the port authorities independently of the above signals.

3. The pilot or other boarding officer shall promptly report the circumstances of the case to the Port officer, who will at once forward any report so made, or give notice of any signal hoisted in pursuance of rule 2, to the Port Health Officer, and, if he considers it necessary, to the local sanitary authority.

Section 2.—Berthing of the vessels.

4. If the number of deaths or cases of the disease referred to in rule 1 does not exceed two, the vessel will not be prohibited from taking up the usual place of anchorage in the port or harbour, and the passengers or crew not suspected of having any of the diseases described in rule 1 need not (except in the case of pilgrim and emigrant ships) be detained on board pending the inspection of the Port Health Officer; but the Master of the vessel will be held responsible that no one of the passengers or crew, having, or suspected of having, any such disease is allowed to depart before this inspection, and shall also prevent the landing of infected bedding, clothes or other personal effects which he has reasonable cause to consider likely to be infected.

5. If the number of deaths within the previous twelve days has exceeded two, or the cases of any such disease are, or have been during the previous twelve days, more numerous than two, or when from their occurring on pilgrim or emigrant ships, or for other special reasons, further precautions may be deemed advisable the Master shall keep hoisted the signals referred to in rule 2 above and anchor the vessel in the place appointed for the purpose, and shall not allow any of the passengers or crew to leave the vessel until the Port Health Officer has made his inspection.

6. So long as the above-mentioned signals are shown, no tindal or other person in charge of, or navigating, any boat shall, without the permission of the Port officer, attempt to make such boat fast to or shall take it alongside such vessel.

Section 3.—The inspection of the vessel.

7. Whenever the Port Health Officer receives the notice referred to in rule 3 above, he shall proceed without delay on board the vessel and examine her, and the Master shall give him every facility for the examination of the passengers, crew, personal effects, cargo, and any part of the ship. In the case of a report of a death or deaths from any cause on a ship not carrying a doctor, he shall institute such inquiries as he may deem necessary to determine the cause of the death or deaths. If he is satisfied that no death was due to cholera, small-pox, measles, chicken-pox or other dangerous, infectious or contagious disease declared by the Governor-General in Council to be common in India, he shall permit the vessel to proceed to anchorage and to discharge passengers and cargo without any further restrictions. If he is not so satisfied, he shall proceed as provided in rule 10 et seq. of these rules. The inspection by the Port Health Officer will ordinarily take place between sunrise and sunset.

8. On the completion of the inspection provided for in rule 7, such of the passengers and crew, as are found to be free from any of the abovementioned diseases and unlikely to carry infection, shall be allowed to land. All baggage, personal effects and cargo, except such articles as the Port Health Officer is entitled to disinfect, may also be landed.

9. If a case of any of the diseases mentioned in rule 1 happens on any vessel after she has been moored at a wharf, the master shall forthwith cause information thereof to be given to the Superintendent of the wharf and shall be responsible that the sick person shall be isolated as much as possible, and that free communication with the wharf is stopped until the Port Health Officer has inspected the vessel and inquired into the case.

Section 4.—The taking of the sick to hospital.

Note.—The regulations in sections 4, 5 and 6 shall be carried out only when the Port Health Officer considers them necessary to prevent the spread of disease.

10. When the Port Health Officer considers it necessary, in order to prevent spread of disease, he may inspect the vessel, including the passengers and crew, and may arrange for the conveyance of all persons suffering or suspected by him to be suffering from such disease to a sanitarium or hospital, unless the sick person or his friends can make adequate provision elsewhere.

11. The removal of passengers is not to be enforced in the case of persons bound for an onward port unless under the clearest necessity; and of every such case a special report explaining the reasons for the action taken shall be submitted to the Government.

12. The Port Health Officer shall inform the Municipal Health Officer in all cases in which he arranges for the conveyance of a patient to a sanitarium or hospital or other place within municipal limits, and shall furnish the address of any private accommodation to which he permits the removal of a patient.

13. Where small-pox is the disease on account of which the vessel is deemed infected, the Port Health Officer shall offer, without charge, vaccination or revaccination of all persons willing to be operated upon and shall cause to be vaccinated, with the consent of their guardians, all children below ten years and over six months of age who do not bear marks of vaccination or of small-pox.

Section 5.—The disinfection of infected articles.

14. The Port Health Officer shall, if he considers it necessary, either himself undertake, or direct the master of the vessel to undertake, the destruction or disinfection of all clothing, bedding and other articles of personal use which have been used by any person suffering from any of the diseases abovementioned and are, or are likely to have been, soiled with infective matter, or to retain infection.

17. The Port Health Officer shall, as the result of the examination made under rule 7 or 10 above, direct the disinfection of any portion of the ship that has actually been exposed to contamination, and may prohibit the discharge of bilge water or water ballast within port limits. Section 7.—General.

18. The methods of disinfection, both of articles and vessels, shall be those prescribed in Appendix A to these rules.

19. Dead bodies shall be disposed of as follows:—

(2) If a death occurs during the day on board a vessel within port limits, K O W shall be hoisted and kept flying from sunrise to sunset, as long as the body remains on board. If a death occurs between sunset and sunrise, the port signal provided for the purpose shall be hoisted and kept flying as long as the body remains on board.

(3) The master of the vessel shall cause the death of any person on board to be made known at once to the police, either by Azan or otherwise, and shall also forward to the Port Officer a written report as soon as possible after the occurrence, in which all the circumstances attending the death shall be fully detailed.

Unless the special permission of the senior officer of police at the port to its interment on shore shall have been obtained, a dead body shall be buried at sea, in not less than 9 fathoms of water, in such manner as shall insure its sinking at once and remaining below water.

20. The master of a vessel coming under these rules shall comply with all the directions which the Port Health Officer considers it necessary to give under the foregoing rules.

21. Nothing in these rules shall be deemed to prevent a vessel whose master is unwilling to submit to the above regulations from proceeding to sea, provided that there has been no communication between such vessel and the shore or with other vessels in the port.

APPENDIX A.

I.—Personal effects such as rags, bandages, papers, and other articles of no value which the Port Health Officer believes are likely to carry infection shall be burned.

II.—Underclothing, bedding, wearing apparel, mattresses, carpets, etc., which are contaminated or are suspected to be contaminated, shall be exposed for 15 minutes to saturated steam at a temperature of not less than 212° F. (100° C), care being taken that the steam shall reach all parts of the article to be disinfected.

III.—The disinfectants to be used are the following:—

(1) A solution of corrosive sublimate 1 part in 1,000 of pure water,* with the addition of 5 parts in 1,000 of common salt (chloride of sodium). This solution shall be tinted by the addition of aniline blue or indigo. It shall not be brought in contact with metals.

(2) A solution in water of clear carbolic acid. This solution shall contain 5 parts of phenol in 100 parts of water.

(3) A solution containing 5 parts of commercial carbolic acid, free from tar oils, in 95 parts of a warm solution of soft soap.

(4) Lime wash, prepared as follows:—

Take a quantity of good quick-lime weighing two pounds and slake it by the gradual addition of about half a pint of water. The lime becomes hot, gives off steam and falls to a powder. This powder, if not used at once, shall be kept in an air-tight vessel in a dry place. For use, the quantity of slaked-lime obtained from two pounds of quick-lime shall be placed in a convenient vessel and water added to make one gallon. Whenever possible, freshly slaked lime shall be used to make the lime wash.

Special instructions to be observed in the use of the disinfecting solutions.

IV.—Linen, clothing and articles which have been soiled by the discharges and excretions of patients shall be soaked in the solution of corrosive sublimate† or in one of the carbolic acid solutions for at least six hours.

V.—Articles which cannot, without injury, be exposed to a temperature of 212° F., such as leather goods, wooden articles stuck with glue, felt, etc., shall be washed with the solution of corrosive sublimate. Metal articles or any material which would be injured by contact with the solution of corrosive sublimate shall be soaked in a solution of carbolic acid.

VI.—The lime wash is particularly recommended for disinfecting excreta.

VII.—Expectorated matter should be burnt.

VIII.—Attendants on the sick ought to take the precaution of washing their own hands and faces with the solution of corrosive sublimate and afterwards with warm water.

Disinfection of ships.

IX.—The cabins, forecastles, holds, water closets or latrines occupied or used by persons suffering, or suspected to be suffering, from an infectious disease shall be cleared out, and all the articles in them shall be treated as directed above. Floors, walls and partitions shall be disinfected with the solution of corrosive sublimate, care being taken that every part is scrubbed and washed until it has been thoroughly wetted by the disinfecting solution. Two hours afterwards the walls, etc., shall be washed with clean water.

X.—In ships, in which cases of cholera have occurred, the drinking water shall be pumped out and the water tanks and casks disinfected with solution of permanganate of potash acidulated with hydrochloric acid before fresh drinking water is taken on board.

Disinfection of the bilges of an infected ship.

XI.—Sulphate of iron in quantity sufficient to neutralize the sulphuretted hydrogen shall first be thrown in; the bilge shall then be pumped out and flushed with sea water. After the sea water has been pumped out, a suitable quantity of corrosive sublimate solution shall be thrown in. The bilge water shall not be pumped out within port limits without the authority of the Port Health Officer.

* Preferably distilled or rain water.

† The same solution, even if it remains clear, shall not be used more than three times since the corrosive sublimate will be removed from the solution in combination with the organic matter in the clothing.

Rule (d).—Whilst any explosives remain on board any vessel at the Port of Madras, whether outside or inside the harbour, a red flag shall be kept flying at the foremast head between sunrise and sunset and the port signal provided for the purpose, viz., a white light over three red lights hoisted in a vertical line one over the other not less than 3 feet apart, between sunset and sunrise. The tindal and at least half of the crew of every such barge, lighter or boat shall remain on board until all the explosives are discharged.

Rule (g).—All barges, lighters and boats having any explosives on board to be landed outside of the harbour shall remain off shore until orders to approach the shore are received from the officer directing the landing. Such landing shall take place either of the bay in the revetment at Castlemode or at the north end of the revetment according to the state of wind and current. At the bay, not more than two boats shall unload simultaneously, but beyond the north end of the revetment four boats may do so.

Rule (h).—Explosives which may be landed or shipped inside the harbour under rule (c) (ii) if properly packed as required by rule 9 of the rules issued by the Governor-General in Council under section 6 of the Indian Explosives Act, 1884, may be shipped on board, or discharged from a vessel lying at the ordinary moorings within the harbour. Such shipment or discharge shall be effected under the precautions and conditions mentioned and contained in these rules, and such explosives shall be taken on board the vessel for which they are intended, immediately after the boat carrying such explosives has come alongside, and no cargo boat or other vessel having fire on board shall be allowed to lie nearer than one cable's length or 200 yards of such vessel during the time that any explosives are being shipped on board the same. All other cargo work on board shall be stopped while such shipment or discharge is taking place.

In the case of a steamer, should it be necessary that the fires in her engine-room should remain lighted, the barge, lighter or boat so bringing or receiving such explosives shall be placed to the windward of the steamer's funnel, and in the event of the steamer swinging, such explosives shall be covered with tarpaulins until such barge, lighter or boat is removed to a safe and proper position. No explosives other than those mentioned in the above two classes shall be discharged from a ship or shipped from the shore before 6-30 A.M. or after 4 P.M.

Rule (j).—No magazine on board any vessel containing explosives other than safety fuzes, safety cartridges and caps shall be opened while the ship is inside the Madras harbour without the permission of the Chairman of the Port Trust Board, or other person he may depute to act for him, except in cases of emergency, and in case, in the opinion of the Chairman of the Port Trust Board, the emergency was not such as to justify the Master of the vessel in opening or allowing the magazine to be opened, he shall be deemed to have contravened this rule Such magazine shall remain open only for the time required to remove or stow explosives, and that operation shall always be performed in the presence of an officer of the ship.

Rule (k).—If any person shall contravene any of the foregoing rules, he shall, on conviction, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

PUBLIC DEPARTMENT.

MEMORIAL RULES.

Fort St. George, April 6, 1909.

The following Memorial Rules are republished for general information :—

RULES REGARDING THE SUBMISSION OF MEMORIALS AND OTHER PAPERS OF THE SAME CLASS TO HIS MAJESTY THE KING, EMPEROR OF INDIA, OR TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA

N.B.—These rules do not in any way affect or supersede orders issued on the same subject by the military authorities for the guidance of the army.

I. No memorial will be received or attended to unless forwarded as hereinafter prescribed.

II. Every memorial to His Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India should contain all material statements and arguments relied upon by the memorialist and be complete in itself; and it should be accompanied by a letter requesting its transmission to the authority to which it is addressed.

III. Every memorial to His Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India should be presented through the Local Government having jurisdiction in respect of the subject-matter of the memorial. In cases where no Local Government is in a position to deal with the subject-matter of the memorial, it should be presented through the Local Government within whose jurisdiction the memorialist is or has last been residing or employed or, if there is no Local Government answering to these descriptions, then through the Government of India.

The Railway Board is regarded as the Local Government in respect of memorials from persons subordinate to it.

IV. Every memorial to His Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India presented through the Government of Madras or Bombay should be forwarded direct by the Local Government, with a full statement of facts and an expression of opinion, except in the case of a memorial which—

(a) relates to—

(i) any rule or standing order of the Government of India, or

(ii) any Legislative Proceeding of the Governor-General in Council or to an Act to which the Governor-General has assented, or

(iii) a case which has been previously under the consideration of the Government of India, whether on appeal or otherwise, or

(b) if granted, would cause expenditure for which the Imperial and not the Local Government would be primarily responsible.

Every such memorial should be forwarded with a covering letter containing a full statement of facts and an expression of opinion to the Government of India as the proper department for transmission to the Secretary of State * for India.

* "In the case of memorials and petitions against, or regarding Acts passed by the Legislative Council of the Governor-General, the Legislative Department is to be considered to be the department having cognizance of the subject-matter of the memorial. Such memorials will be transmitted to His Majesty's Secretary of State through that department; and to it should be referred all memorials of the kind now described, which may reach any other department of the Government of India. The Legislative Department will, when necessary, consult the executive department concerned before disposing of, or transmitting, such memorials."—Home Department No. 32—996-1001, Public, dated 24th May 1618.

Memorials involving questions relating to pensions, gratuities, allowances, and the like should be forwarded through the Government of India.—Home Department Notification No. 5133, dated 10th September 1901.

V. Every memorial to His Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India presented through a Local Government, other than the Government of Madras or Bombay, should be forwarded by the Local Government, with a full statement of facts and an expression of opinion, to the Government of India in the proper department for transmission to the authority addressed.*

VI. Every memorial to His Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India from a person who has been employed in the army should, if it relates to a military subject, be forwarded through the Lieutenant-General Commanding the Forces of the Command in which the memorialist has served. The Lieutenant-General will forward it, with a full statement of facts and an expression of opinion, to the Government of India in the Military Department for transmission to the authority addressed.†

VII. No limit is fixed to the time within which an appeal from an order of the Governments in India must be preferred to the Home Government, except in the case of an appeal from a judicial decision in which the Judge is a Political officer, and in which the appeal ordinarily lies to Government in the Political Department. Such appeals must be preferred within a period of twelve months from the date of communication to the person concerned of the order to which objection is taken.

VIII. A memorial may be transmitted either in manuscript or in print, but must, with all accompanying documents, be properly authenticated by the signature of the memorialist on each sheet and must conclude with a specific prayer.

IX. Memorials, together with their accompanying documents, should be in English ‡. If the accompanying documents must necessarily be forwarded in the Vernacular, an English translation should be appended, which should be attested by the signature of the memorialist.

N.B.—It will be well for the transmitting office to examine such translations, and if they are found to be incorrect or faulty, to notice the fact in sending on the memorial.

X. It is not necessary that memorials should be forwarded in duplicate or triplicate. The originals will invariably be transmitted to England, a copy being made and retained by the Government of India, if necessary, for record.

XI. As a general rule, the transmission to England of a memorial duly forwarded through the proper channel should not be delayed by the transmitting Government in India, beyond a month after the receipt of the memorial.

XII. The Governments in India are vested with discretionary power to withhold the transmission of memorials addressed to His Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India in the following cases:—

(1) When a memorial is illegible or unintelligible.

(2) When a memorial contains disrespectful or improper language.

(3) When a second memorial is presented after a decision has already been given by the authority to which it is addressed, and when no new facts or circumstances are adduced which afford grounds for a reconsideration of the case. A memorial addressed to His Majesty by a person whose appeal to the Secretary of State for India has already been rejected, shall be held to be a second memorial to the same authority, and shall not be transmitted.

(4) When a memorial is a mere application for pecuniary assistance by a person manifestly possessing no claim.

(5) When a memorial is an application for employment under one of the Governments in India from a person not in the service of the Government or is a request for exemption from the provisions of any law or rule prescribing the qualifications to be possessed by persons in the service of Government or by persons engaging in any profession or employment.

(6) When a memorial is a mere appeal from a judicial decision.

Note (1)—If the memorial is practically an appeal for mercy or pardon, or contains such an appeal, it must be transmitted, unless it falls under rule XIII.

Note (2)—When a memorial of the kind referred to in Note 1 is addressed to His Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India after a previous petition has been rejected by the Government of India or the Local Government, the memorial must be transmitted unless the case is one of which the Local Government is competent to dispose on its own responsibility under the orders contained in the Resolution of the Government of India in the Home Department, No. [illegible] 1761-73, dated the 15th August 1890.

* Appeals by private persons from the orders of the Lieutenant-Governors lie, in the first instance, to the Governor-General in Council. An appeal to the Secretary of State will lie only in the event of an appeal to the Governor-General in Council having been rejected.

† Appeals by individuals from the orders of the Lieutenant-General Commanding the Forces, lie in the first instance to the Governor-General in Council and thereafter to the Secretary of State.

‡ "As it frequently happens that the disposal of vernacular petitions presented to the Government of India is delayed owing to their being unaccompanied by English translations, and as Local Governments and Administrations have greater facilities for translating the vernaculars in use under their different provinces than the Government of India have, I am directed to request that in order to avoid inconvenience and delay, all vernacular petitions transmitted by a Local Government and Administration to the Government of India may invariably be accompanied by an English translation.

"2. It should, however, be clearly understood that it is not the intention of the Governor-General in Council that any petition presented for transmission to the Government of India or the Secretary of State should be refused by reason of its being in the vernacular or because it is unaccompanied by a translation. The great majority of the population do not know English, and cannot obtain the services of an English petition-writer, and it is most undesirable that in a country like India the free right of petition should be curtailed. But as the languages of India are many and diverse, it is desirable that any vernacular petition or memorial forwarded to supreme authority by or through a Local Government should be accompanied by an English translation."—Home Department, No. 54—2084-93 (Public), dated 21st November 1879.

(7) * When a memorial is an appeal against an order of a Local Government regarding the dismissal, removal, reduction or other punishment of a Government servant or an employee of a local authority whose salary was not more than Rs. 100 a month; or when it is an appeal against a similar order of a Local Government confirmed by the Government of India from a Government servant or an employee of a local authority whose salary was not more than Rs. 250 a month.

NOTE.—The first sentence in this clause applies to the orders of the Government of India as well as to those of Local Governments.

(8) When a memorial is an appeal against a decision, which by any law or rule having the force of law, is declared to be final.

(9) When a memorial is addressed by an officer still in the public service and has reference to his prospective claim to pension.

(10) When a memorial is a mere appeal against the non-exercise by one of the Governments in India of a discretion vested in such Government by law or rule.

(11) When a memorial is an appeal against the action of a private individual, or of a body of private individuals, regarding the private relations of the memorialist and such individual or body.

(12) When a memorial is an appeal against orders refusing the grant of a pension to an inferior servant who is not eligible for such grant under the pension rules.

XIII. The Government of India may withhold the transmission of a memorial to His Majesty or to the Secretary of State for India unless the memorialist has previously memorialised the Government of India and the Local Government concerned on the same subject; and the Government of Madras or Bombay may withhold the transmission of a memorial which under rule IV they are authorized to forward direct, unless the memorialist has previously memorialised the Local Government concerned on the same subject; provided that, when the memorial is one for pardon which no authority in India has power to grant, it should be addressed to His Majesty and forwarded to the Secretary of State for India.

XIV. When a memorial is withheld, the memorialist should be informed of the fact and of the reason for it.

XV. A list of memorials withheld under the discretionary power conferred by Rule XII, with the reasons for withholding them, will be forwarded quarterly to the Government of India in the case of memorials withheld by Local Governments under the same discretionary power, and by the Government of India in the department concerned to the Secretary of State for India.

RULES REGARDING THE SUBMISSION OF PETITIONS TO THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

NOTE 1.—In these rules the words "Local Government" include a Local Administration and the Commander-in-Chief in India, and also, except as regards petitioners under rule 11 (7), whose salary was more than Rs. 50 a month, the Head of a Department directly under the Government of India and Divisional and Independent Brigade Commanders.

NOTE 2.—These rules do not apply to non-pensionable subordinate, clerical and menial establishments employed in the construction and working of State Railways, to whom Circular No. VI-Railway, Public Works Department, dated 1st June 1888, applies.

NOTE 3.—These rules apply, so far as may be, to all memorials, letters and applications, etc., addressed to the Governor-General in Council.

NOTE 4.—These rules apply also to petitions by persons no longer in military employ who have served in the Army or the Royal Indian Marine, or have been attached to regiments or batteries or the staff or departments of the Army in any capacity.

SECTION I.

As to the submission of petitions to the Government of India by private persons or public bodies.

1. Every petition to the Government of India should be forwarded through the Local Government having jurisdiction in respect of the subject-matter of the petition. In cases where no Local Government is in a position to deal with the subject-matter of the petition, it should be forwarded through the Local Government within whose jurisdiction the petitioner is or has last been residing or employed.

2. A petition may be either in manuscript or in print, but must, with all accompanying documents, be properly authenticated by the signature of the petitioner, or, when the petitioners are numerous, by the signatures of one or more of them, and it must conclude with a specific prayer.†

3. Every petition should be accompanied by a letter addressed to the Local Government requesting its transmission to the Government of India, and, when any order of a Local Government is appealed against, by a copy of such order, as well as of any orders passed in the case by subordinate authorities.

4. Communications on matters connected with any bills before the Council may be addressed either in the form of a petition to the Governor-General in Council or in a letter to the Secretary in

---

* "The Governor-General in Council considers that the discretionary power of withholding petitions under clause 9, Rule XIII† of the Rules for the submission, receipt, and transmission of memorials and other papers of the same class addressed to His Majesty the King, Emperor of India, or to the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for India, by private persons or by officers of all Civil Departments, should be used with caution, and only after full consideration of the facts in each case. Having regard to the consideration and character of the Indian subordinate services, dismissal of Government officials often involves serious distress, if not actual ruin, to them, and it is right that, under such circumstances, every opportunity should be allowed to them of making themselves heard. Further, when, as sometimes happens, their representations reach the Secretary of State through non-official channels, it is convenient that he should be in a position at once to deal with them instead of being obliged, as may now be the case, to refer for information to this country. Such petitions, therefore, should not be withheld when there is any reasonable prospect of difference of opinion as to the order passed on them by the Government of India, or when they contain anything to which the attention of the Secretary of State is likely to be especially directed."—Home Department Resolution No. 1458 (Public), dated 24th September 1909.

† Since renumbered clause 7, rule XII.

the Legislative Department, and must in either case be sent to the Secretary in the Legislative Department. Ordinarily such communications will not be answered. Except in the case of the High Court at Fort William, such communications from Courts, officials or public bodies should be sent through the Local Government.

SECTION II.

As to the submission of petitions by officers in civil employ.

5. Every officer wishing to petition the Government of India should do so separately.

6. Every petition should be submitted through the head of the office or department to which the petitioner belongs, and should be forwarded by him through the usual official channel.

7. No officer may submit a petition in respect of any matter connected with his official position unless he has some personal interest in the matter.

8. No notice will be taken of a petition relating to any matter connected with the official prospects or position of an officer still in the public service, unless it is submitted by the officer himself.

SECTION III

As to the transmission or withholding of petitions by Local Governments.

9. Every petition to the Government of India should be forwarded by the Local Government concerned with a concise statement of the material facts and (unless there are special reasons for not doing so) an expression of opinion.

If the petition is an appeal against an order of dismissal from Government service, the papers submitted by the Local Government should show whether the charge against the petitioner was reduced to writing; whether his defence was taken and reduced to writing; and whether the decision was in writing. Where service or character books are maintained these also should be submitted.

10. When the petition is not in English, the Local Government should transmit a translation with it.

11. Local Governments are vested with discretionary power to withhold petitions addressed to the Government of India in the following cases:—

(1) When a petition is illegible or unintelligible.

(2) When a petition contains language which, in the opinion of the Local Government, is disloyal, disrespectful, or improper.

(3) When a previous petition has been disposed of by the Secretary of State for India or the Governor General in Council, and the petition discloses no new facts or circumstances which afford grounds for a reconsideration of the case.

(4) When a petition is an application for pecuniary assistance by a person manifestly possessing no claim.

(5) When a petition is an application for employment from a person not in the service of Government, or is a request for exemption from the provisions of any law or rule prescribing the qualifications to be possessed by persons in the service of Government or by persons engaging in any profession or employment.

(6) When a petition is an appeal from a judicial decision with which the executive has no legal power of interference.

NOTE 1.—In the following cases, namely:—

(a) when a petition is an appeal from a judicial decision in a suit in which the Government has received any discretion of interference, or

(b) when a petition is an appeal from a judicial decision in a suit in which the Government was a party, or

(c) when a petition is practically a prayer for mercy or pardon, or contains such a prayer, the petition must be transmitted to the Government of India, unless it falls under clause (13) of this rule.

NOTE 2.—When a petition of the kind referred to in clause (c) of Note 1, addressed to the Government of India after a previous petition has been rejected by the Local Government, the petition must be transmitted, unless the case is one of which the Local Government is competent to dispose on its own responsibility under the orders contained in the Resolution of the Government of India in the Home Department No. 20—1403-13, dated the 14th October 1885.

(7) When a petition is an appeal against an order of the Local Government upholding on appeal the dismissal, removal, reduction, or other punishment of a Government servant or an employee of a local authority whose salary was not more than Rs. 100 a month.

(8) When a petition is an appeal against a decision which by any law or rule having the force of law is declared to be final.

(9) When a petition is addressed by an officer still in the public service, and has reference to his prospective claim for pension, except as provided in article 918 of the Civil Service Regulations.

(10) When a petition is an appeal against the non-exercise by the Local Government of a discretion vested in it by law or rule.

(11) When a petition is an appeal in a case for which the law provides a different or specific remedy, or in regard to which the time limited by law for appeal has been exceeded.

(12) When a petition is an appeal against an order or decision of the Local Government, and is made more than six months after the communication of such order or decision to the petitioner without satisfactory explanation of the delay.

(13) When a petition relates to a subject on which the Local Government is competent to pass orders and to previous application for redress has been made to the Local Government.

(14) When a petition makes a proposal regarding legislation which the Local Government is not prepared to support.

12. If a petition is withheld, the petitioner should be informed of the fact and the reason for it.

13. A list of petitions withheld under Rule 11, with the reasons for withholding them, shall be forwarded quarterly to the Government of India in the proper department.

C

RULES FOR THE SUBMISSION AND RECEIPT OF PETITIONS AND OTHER PAPERS OF THE SAME CLASS ADDRESSED TO THE GOVERNMENT OF FORT ST. GEORGE.

I. Persons having cause of complaint against any servant of Government, civil or military, shall, in the first instance, seek redress from the officer in whom the local authority is vested, who, if unable to grant the redress sought, shall pass an order in writing to that effect. If dissatisfied with this decision, the petitioner shall be at liberty to address the Board of Revenue or Court, or superior civil or military authority, by which the local authority is controlled; or he may address the Government, in cases wherein there is no intermediate authority.

II. The Government will not receive a petition on any matter, unless it shall appear that the petitioner has first applied to the local authority, and also to the Board of Revenue or other controlling authority, where such exists. The petitions addressed to such local and controlling authorities, or copies of them, and the answers or orders of those authorities respectively, if any shall have been passed, must be annexed to the petition addressed to Government.

III. In order to enable Government to maintain the foregoing rule, without injustice or hardship to complaining parties, all heads of offices will understand that a party affected by an order is entitled to have, on application, a copy of the order, which should contain full details of the grounds of the decision. This is to be furnished to him, on plain paper, and without payment.

IV. Government will receive petitions only from principals; addresses running in the name of a vakil or agent will receive no attention. Anonymous petitions will be totally disregarded.

V. (1) Every petition from an inhabitant of a Native State under the political control of the Madras Government must be submitted through the British Resident or Political Officer of the State in which the petitioner resides.

(2) The Resident or Political Officer will forward the petition to the Government of Madras with such report on the case as may be necessary.

VI. Petitions from the Carnatic stipendiaries, or on the subject of Carnatic stipends, should be submitted through the Paymaster, Carnatic Stipends.

VII. Petitions from Political pensioners other than Carnatic stipendiaries and from Kandyan pensioners, or on the subject of Political pensions other than Carnatic, should be submitted through the Government Agent or the Collector of the district in which the petitioners reside.

VIII. Every officer wishing to petition the Government should do so separately.

IX. No officer may submit a petition in respect of any matter connected with his official position unless he has some personal interest in such matter.

X. Every petition must be submitted through the head of the office or department to which the petitioner belongs or belonged.

XI. The head of the office or department will at once forward the petition to the Government through the ordinary official channel, and may make such remarks, as he may consider necessary, in regard to the accuracy of the statements made and inferences drawn in the appeal petition; he will also forward such records, not submitted by the appellant, as should properly be consulted in order to the disposal of the appeal.

If the petition is an appeal against an order of dismissal from Government service, the papers submitted by the head of the office or department should show whether the charge against the petitioner was reduced to writing; whether his defence was taken and reduced to writing; and whether the decision was in writing. Where service or character books are maintained these also should be submitted.

XII. As the Governor in Council never interferes with the distribution of subordinate appointments, applications for situations in the gift of heads of departments will remain unnoticed.

XIII. Petitions addressed to Government will be liable to summary rejection in the following cases:—

(1) When a petition is illegible or unintelligible.

(2) When a petition contains language which, in the opinion of Government, is disloyal, disrespectful or improper.

(3) When a previous petition has been disposed of by the Madras Government, the Governor-General in Council, or the Secretary of State and the petition discloses no new facts or circumstances which afford grounds for a reconsideration of the case.

(4) When a petition is an application for pecuniary assistance by a person manifestly possessing no claim.

(5) When a petition is a request for exemption from the provisions of any law or rule prescribing the qualifications to be possessed by persons in the service of Government or by persons engaging in any profession or employment.

NOTE.—Applications from unposted candidates wishing to obtain appointments in the public service and praying for exemption from the examination rules must be made to the head of the department which they wish to enter.

(6) When a petition is an appeal from a judicial decision, with which the executive has no legal power of interference.

(7) When a petition is an appeal against a decision which by any law, or rule having the force of law, is declared to be final.

(8) When a petition is an appeal in a case for which the law provides a different or specific remedy, or in regard to which the time limited by law for appeal has been exceeded.

(9) When a petition is addressed by an officer still in the public service, and has reference to his prospective claim for pension, except as provided in article 913 of the Civil Service Regulations.

(10) When a petition is an appeal against the non-exercise by Government of a discretion vested in it by law or rule.

NOTE.—Appeals against dismissal from Municipal servants whose appointments have to be approved by Government will be exempt from the operation of this rule.

RULES REGARDING THE SUBMISSION OR WITHHOLDING BY LOCAL GOVERNMENTS OR ADMINISTRATIONS AND BY OFFICERS OF THE POLITICAL DEPARTMENT OF THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA OF PETITIONS, MEMORIALS AND OTHER PAPERS OF THE SAME CLASS RELATING TO MATTERS AFFECTING PERSONS OR PLACES UNDER THEIR POLITICAL CHARGE, WHEN SUCH PETITIONS OR OTHER PAPERS ARE ADDRESSED TO THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA, TO HIS MAJESTY THE KING, EMPEROR OF INDIA, OR TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA.

I.—Memorials, etc., addressed to the Government of India.

1. Every memorial must be submitted to the Political Officer of the State within whose jurisdiction the subject-matter has arisen, accompanied by a copy of the order appealed against and by a letter requesting its transmission to the authority to which it is addressed.

2. Memorials may be transmitted either in manuscript or in print, but must, with all accompanying documents, be properly authenticated by the signature of the memorialist on each sheet.

3. Subject to the exceptions hereinafter contained, every memorial received which conforms to the above rules should be forwarded by the Political Officer through the usual official channel, with a concise statement of material facts, and, unless there be special reasons to the contrary, an expression of opinion.

4. Memorials, together with their accompanying documents should be in English. If the accompanying documents must necessarily be forwarded in the vernacular, an English translation should be appended, which should be attested by the signature of the memorialist on each sheet.

N. B.—The transmitting officer should examine such translations, and, if they are found to be incorrect or faulty, notice the fact in sending on the memorial.

5. Every memorial should be accompanied by copies of all the orders passed in the case by the authorities who have dealt with it in India.

6. Local Governments, Administrations and Political Officers in direct subordination to the Foreign Department of the Government of India are vested with discretionary power to withhold memorials addressed to the Government of India in the following cases :—

(1) When the memorial is illegible or unintelligible.

(2) When the memorial contains language which, in the opinion of the authority who would otherwise forward it, is disloyal, disrespectful, or improper.

(3) When a previous petition of the memorialist (which term includes a rejoinder submitted by the memorialist in answer to a previous petition of some other party) has been disposed of by the Secretary of State or the Governor-General in Council, and the petition discloses no new facts or circumstances which afford grounds for a reconsideration of the case.

(4) When the memorial relates to a matter which is within the competence of the Local Government, Administration or Political Officer to dispose of, and no application has previously been made to such Government, Administration, or Political Officer for redress.

(5) When the memorial is an appeal preferred more than twelve months after the date on which the memorialist was informed of the order against which he appeals.

(6) When the memorial refers to matters in which the memorialist is not personally interested.

7. Provided they do not contravene the condition specified in the preceding section, memorials which are appeals against orders passed by Local Governments, Administrations and Political officers in direct subordination to the Foreign Department of the Government of India, in the exercise of political control in territories not included in British India, shall be forwarded, except in the following cases in which a discretionary power to withhold the memorials may be exercised :—

(1) When the order appealed against has been passed by the Local Government, Administration, or Political Officer as a recognised Court of Appeal in regard to a judgment or order of any Court of civil or criminal jurisdiction established or continued by the Governor-General in Council in such territories.

(2) When the order appealed against is a mere refusal to exercise political control in regard to a judgment or order of any special Court established by the Governor-General in Council in such territories, from which Court there is, by its constitution, no appeal, though a general political control over it is declared or understood to exist.

(3) When the order appealed against is a mere refusal to interfere in a matter of purely internal policy with the action or orders of the Ruler of a Native State of which the memorialist is a subject : provided that the State is one in which it is not customary for the British Government to intervene in matters of internal policy, and that the matter complained of does not disclose a state of misrule so gross that the paramount power would be called upon to interfere.

N.B.—This rule applies to a temporary Administration established in a Native State by the Governor-General in Council when the temporary Administration is appointed to exercise the same powers and occupy the same position as the Native Administration which it supersedes.

8. Memorials from persons * in such territories which are not covered by these rules may be treated under the memorial rules of the Home Department when they are applicable.

GOVERNMENT EXAMINATIONS

GOVERNMENT TECHNICAL EXAMINATIONS—APRIL 1909

Candidates for the ensuing Government Technical Examinations are informed that they must bring their drawing instruments with them for those subjects which require plans to be copied, or scales and diagrams to be drawn. The drawing paper required will be supplied to them at the examination.

Candidates in Surveying and Levelling (Advanced grade only) will be allowed to bring with them their mathematical tables for use in the examination.

Candidates in Carpentry, Fitter's Work and any other subject, the practical examination in which requires the use of tools, etc., must bring their own tools, etc., with them.

Candidates in Book-keeping, Commercial Geography, Shorthand and Typewriting will be expected to bring with them, for use in the examination hall, their own rulers, erasers, knives, pencils and pens.

Candidates for examination in the subjects under "Commerce" will be allowed also to bring with them ink of two or more colours (other than black ink) for map-drawing, drawing lines in Book-keeping, etc.

Candidates in Shorthand will be allowed to transcribe their Shorthand notes with a typewriter. They will not be supplied with any "think" paper for the purpose, but will be allowed to bring with them their own "think" paper, if they wish to use such paper. If the machine used by a candidate, however, goes out of order, an extra hour will be given to him to compensate for loss of time while the machine is out of order and being put right.

Candidates in Typewriting will have to bring their own typewriters also and the necessary carbon paper with them and must specify clearly on their answer papers the particular kind of machine used by them as, otherwise, their answer-papers will not be valued.

TABLE SHOWING THE ORDER OF TIME AND SUBJECTS ACCORDING TO WHICH THE WRITTEN EXAMINATION WILL BE CONDUCTED.

The examination in this subject will commence at 9 o'clock in the morning, if the candidates have to be examined in batches.

Attention is drawn to the following rules :—

1. No candidate will be allowed to enter the examination room unless he wears a clean and decent dress, and in all cases where good manners require it, a suitable covering for the head, nor will he be allowed to keep his shoes on unless they are shoes of English pattern, and socks and trousers are worn also.

No candidate suffering from any contagious disease will be admitted to the examination room.

2. No candidate will be allowed to quit the examination room on any day until the expiration of half an hour from the time fixed for the commencement of the examination, and candidates arriving after the expiration of that half hour will not be admitted.

3. No candidate will be allowed to re-enter the examination room during the hours of examination after once quitting it, nor to leave the room without finally giving up his answer-papers.

4. Any candidate detected in speaking to, or in any way communicating with, any other candidate will be at once removed from the room and the circumstance reported to the Commissioner.

5. Any candidate suspected of having had recourse to malpractice of any kind is liable to have his examination invalidated and also to be debarred from appearing again for any of the examinations under the control of the Commissioner for such term of years as the Commissioner may think fit; or, if the Commissioner is not satisfied for any reason whatever as to the trustworthiness of his results, he may be required to undergo a re-examination at some future date to be fixed by the Commissioner in any one or more of the subjects of the examination for which he appeared, his success or failure being determined on the results of such re-examination.

6. No candidate will, on any account, be allowed to take into the examination room, ink, slates, books, ruled sheets, manuscripts or papers of any kind. Any one detected in the violation of this rule or having recourse to any unfair practices, will be removed from the room and the occurrence reported to the Commissioner. The use of mathematical instruments for drawing figures or ruling lines will, however, be allowed.

7. Candidates whose names are not in the printed list furnished to the Superintendents must submit a written declaration through the Superintendents, giving full particulars in regard to themselves including their address and furnish such evidence as may be possible of their having applied for admission to the examination at the proper time and paid the prescribed fees. The answer-papers of such candidates will not be valued unless it is clear that the omission of their names is due to no fault of theirs.

8. Candidates choosing to change their place of examination without previous permission or appearing at any centre other than the one at which they had to have appeared according to the notice published in the Gazette, must not expect to have their papers valued or their results published. In all cases where permission has been granted, the memorandum or letter permitting the change should be produced for the satisfaction of the Superintendents.

9. A candidate having completed his paper will rise from his seat and remain standing until the Superintendent takes his answer-papers. Any candidate wishing to ask any question of the Superintendent will pursue the same course, but will on no account leave his place.

10. Any answer-papers, or any work in Carpentry, Fitter's Work, etc., sent up without the candidate's name and number affixed will not be valued. The answer-papers and drawings should be stitched or pinned together at the upper left-hand corner, and the whole folded in two lengthwise (not crosswise into four). The place of examination and the name and number should be written out clearly by the candidate on the top right-hand side of the first page of the answer-paper, as well as on the top of the paper after it is folded.

11. Candidates will not be allowed to take any papers, except their question papers, out of the examination room.

12. Candidates are forbidden to tear up papers or to throw ink or papers on the floor. All "spoilt copies, etc.," should be left on the desk where the candidate has been writing.

(Designation)

N.B.—Please give the place of residence with door No. and street in addition to the place of business in the second column of the return.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE PREPARATION OF THE TRUE RETURNS OF INCOME REFERRED TO ABOVE.

(1) In the case of a firm, the ordinary designation of the firm should be entered in column 1.

(2) If the person or firm making the return has several places of residence or business, they should all be mentioned in column 2, the principal place of residence or business being specified.

(3) Column 3 should show all sources and amounts of income, specifying separately those chargeable under Parts I, II, III and IV of Schedule II of the Act, and the number of shares in such income and the names of sharers. In this column should be entered in detail every separate source of income accruing and arising in British India. Salaries, pensions, annuities and gratuities are chargeable under Part I, interest on Government and other securities under Part III and other sources of income including the rental-value of buildings occupied by owners calculated under section 24 of the Act, are chargeable under Part IV of Schedule II of the Act.

(4) In column 4 should be entered the gross income accruing and arising during the year ending on the day on which the person's accounts have been last made up or if the person's accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the 31st day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then during the year ending on the 31st day of March. In this column, the period during which the income from each source has been derived should be specified.

(5) Against the gross receipts, no deductions should be made on account of disbursements or expenses not wholly and exclusively incurred in respect of the profits returned, nor on account of the maintenance of the assessee himself or his family or domestic establishment, nor shall any deduction be allowed on account of any tax, rate or cess to which the assessee is liable, other than a tax or rate imposed on the assessee, in respect of his ownership of any buildings or lands not used for agricultural purposes under sections 129, 146 148 and 149 of Act III of 1904 (Madras), sections 38 and 73 of Act IV of 1884 (Madras), section 67 (i) and (ii) of Act V of 1884 (Madras) and section 17 of Act XIII, 1859 (India), (Notification No. 216, dated 17th April 1865, published on page 489, Part I of Fort St. George Gazette, dated 26th April 1865).

(6) A deduction for the purpose of securing a deferred annuity or a provision for wife or children or a payment to a Life Insurance Company should not be excluded from column 4, but should be included in the column headed "Total deductions" and supported in the assurances case by a receipt for such deduction or payment.

EXAMPLES OF DEDUCTIONS FROM THE GROSS RECEIPTS WHICH ARE ADMISSIBLE.

(a) In the case of trades or professions,

(1) Sums actually expended in the repairs of implements, utensils or articles used solely for the purpose of the profession or trade.

(2) Sums expended in insuring or keeping insured the buildings, machinery and plant, implements, and stock used for the purpose of the profession or trade. The deduction is confined to the premia (including subscriptions, etc.) paid during the year upon the income accruing on which the tax is assessed.

(3) The amount of rent paid for any premises exclusively used for such profession or trade.

N.B.—Where they are not exclusively used for such profession or trade, only a fair proportion of such rent is admissible for deduction.

(4) The amount actually expended on repairs and renewals of such premises, if the repairs and renewals are at the cost of the assessee. The assessee must be prepared to prove the amount spent by means of vouchers.

(5) The amount expended on salaries of persons employed solely and exclusively in the profession or trade. When a firm has transactions both in and out of India and realizes profit in both by means of an establishment maintained in India in common for both, only a proportionate deduction is allowed (the exact proportion of which will be determined by the assessing officer in each case).

(6) The amount of any loss in trade or of the stock in trade actually written off during the year. In cases where there is loss in one trade or profession and profit in another, the loss may be set off against the profits, and any excess loss deducted. So also loss under any one part of the Schedule may be set off against income under any other part.

(7) The amount of any bad debt (or debts) found bona fide and upon reasonable grounds written off as irrecoverable within the year, provided—

(i) that such bad debt (or debts) has been regularly brought forward in the ledger from year to year from the date on which the debt arose;

(ii) that it has not been written off to profit and loss before; and

(iii) that when once a particular debt has been bona fide and upon reasonable grounds written off to profit and loss in one year, no portion of such debt can be carried forward so as to be set off against or taken in deduction of the profits of the next or any succeeding year.

Note.—In writing off bad debts against the income of any year care must be taken to see that the amount is not unnecessarily deducted and not deducted more than once.

(8) Interest paid on borrowed capital. The assessee may be required to satisfy the assessing officer that only capital actually employed in his trade is taken into account in this connection.

N.B.—When the whole capital is not exclusively employed in the trade, only a fair proportion of the interest paid shall be deducted.

(9) Such miscellaneous and contingent charges as Commission or Discount—
Postage, Telegraphic, Law, Advertising and Stationery charges.
Shipping, Freight, Railway and other Transit charges,

N.B.—The nature of the charge and the amount incurred under each should be distinctly demonstrable.

(10) Payments actually made to Insurance Companies for the purpose of securing a deferred annuity or a provision for wife or children or a payment to a Life Insurance Company, but not those set aside to form an Insurance Fund.

(11) Charges incurred in providing tiffin for assistants, clerks and constituents.

(12) Amount actually expended from the profits of the year on ordinary maintenance repair of machinery and plant.

(13) Such amount as may be actually set apart from the profits of the year for depreciation up to a limit of 10 per cent. on the value of the machinery and plant.

N.B.—Care should be taken to see that the deduction allowed represents the repairs, and depreciation of only one year, i.e., the year the income of which is assessed.

(2) In cases of houses owned and let by the owner for rent.

(1) Sums expended in insuring or keeping insured such houses, the deduction being confined only to the premia (including subscriptions, etc.) paid during the year upon the income accruing in which the tax is assessed.

(2) Actual expenditure during the year on repairs and renewal of houses, if such repairs are at the cost of the assessee, but not depreciation in the value of such buildings.

(3) Sums expended in collecting the rent not exceeding 6 per cent. of the gross rental. The deduction applies only to direct payments.

(4) Any interest payable to a mortgagee not in possession, whether the interest has or has not been actually paid during the year.

(5) Any rent or quit-rent paid by the assessee on account of such houses or their sites. (Notification No. 89, dated 26th February 1895, printed on pages 209 & 210, Part I of Fort St. George Gazette, dated 5th March 1895).

(c) In cases of houses occupied by the owner for dwelling purposes under section 24 of Act II of 1886.

(1) When buildings are occupied by their owners as dwelling-houses, five-sixths of the estimated annual rent thereof shall be added to the net income under Part IV and the sum total assessed, provided that, where five-sixths of the annual rental value exceeds 10 per cent of the assessee's income from all sources whether taxable or not, the excess shall be deducted from the five-sixths of the rental value and the remainder added to the net income under Part IV.

(2) Houses reserved for the use of the owner, but not occupied by him during the period which serves as the basis of assessment.

N.B.—The term renewal as used in the return refers only to such works as are intended to put the building into the same state as it was in when it was originally constructed, while any additional accommodation provided or any material alteration to the plan of the building shall be treated as an addition.

When a portion of the house is occupied by the owner and the remainder let out on hire, the portions should be treated as if they were separate houses and deductions allowed accordingly, i.e., either a sixth of the annual rent-value or actual expenditure on repairs and renewals, as the case may be.

EXAMPLES OF DEDUCTIONS FROM THE GROSS RECEIPTS WHICH ARE NOT ADMISSIBLE.

(1) Amounts expended by Vakils on the purchase of Law books and stationery.

(2) Amounts set apart to form a Renewal Fund in cases where allowance is made for repairs under the rules.

(3) Amount set apart as a Reserve Fund out of profit to meet anticipated or contingent losses.

(4) Amount spent in or set apart for repayment of debts.

(5) Interest on capital put in by the partners of the firm.

(6) Partner's allowances.

(7) Bad or doubtful debts not written off.

(8) Any set off out of the profits of the year on account of ascertained losses of previous years.

(9) Public or local rates, cesses or taxes other than such taxes or rates as under paragraph (5) of the instructions given above may be deducted. (Notification No. 89, dated 26th February 1895, printed on pages 209 & 210, Part I of Fort St. George Gazette, dated 5th March 1895).

(10) Cost of maintenance of the assessee himself or his family or domestics.

(11) Bonuses paid to domestic servants.

(12) Christmas presents to domestic servants.

(13) Subscription to races, charities and schools, etc.

(14) Tiffin expenses of partners of a firm when these can be separately ascertained.

(15) Interest not received in cash, a bond being taken for the same.

(16) Deductions for depreciation in the value of buildings.

(17) Payments made to form an Insurance Fund against future losses.

(18) Outlay on the purchase of machinery, plant, etc.

It is probable that this special departmental examination will not be held in future.

SURVEY OF INDIA.

(Vide H. & A. Department No. 53—157-2, dated the 4th January 1910.)

MEMORANDUM OF INSTRUCTIONS FOR APPLICANTS FOR THE PROVINCIAL SERVICE OF THE SURVEY OF INDIA.

The application must further be accompanied by *specimens of Plan and Free-hand Drawing. The candidate's name having been registered, he will be informed of the time and place of examination, when decided on. The examination papers will be issued from the Trigonometrical Branch Office at Dehra Dún.

2nd.—No application can be entertained from any individual whose age at the date of the completion of the examination will be under 18 or above 22 years, except in the case of Natives whose maximum age is fixed at 24 years. The Surveyor General, however, has the power to extend the age limit to 30 years in the case of those candidates who are at the time in permanent service in the subordinate grades of the Survey of India. No person who is married or is likely to be soon married will be admitted unless of pure Asiatic origin. Candidates, if of European parentage, must be Statutory Natives of India and have at least passed the High School Pass examination or First Arts examination at an Indian University having qualified in Algebra as one of the subjects, and if Natives the F.A. Pass examination.

3rd.—Candidates must be prepared to undergo the examination detailed below, which will give them entrance to the Training School at Dehra; no candidate will be considered to have qualified unless he gets 50 per cent. of the marks in Mathematics and 30 per cent. of the total marks in Drawing.

4th.—Examinations will be held in August as a rule. The most suitable of the candidates who qualify will be selected.

5th.—When under examination for the Department, the candidate must sign the Bond printed on the reverse of this paper.

6th.—The selected candidates will enter the Department as Probationary Sub-Assistant Superintendents, 3rd grade, on a salary of Rs. 120 per mensem, and they must pass out of the Training School within a maximum limit of 2 years. They will not be confirmed in their appointments until they have served at least 1 year in a field party and have been well reported on.

7th.—As Surveyors are liable to much exposure and to work in trying climates, the medical certificate should particularly specify that the candidate is of good physique and is likely to stand hard work, such as riding and walking long distances. The medical certificate should be in the form as given overleaf, signed by a Medical Officer in Government employ not lower in rank than Lieutenant. During his course at the Training School should he prove to be in the opinion of the Superintendent, Trigonometrical Surveys, physically unfitted for the Department, that officer may demand a further certificate of fitness.

UNCOVENANTED SERVICE FAMILY PENSION FUND.

NOTICE is hereby given that in pursuance of a requisition of twelve qualified subscribers to the Uncovenanted Service Family Pension Fund (resident in England) a special meeting of the subscribers to the fund will be held in the Town Hall on Saturday the 12th June 1909 at 3 P.M. to consider the advisability of referring again to the general body of subscribers the revision and amendment of the proviso added to Rule 44 by Circular No. 1 of the 10th April 1907.

Under the above proviso every subscriber's share of surplus at the commencement of each year was restricted to an amount not exceeding his registered annual subscription, any surplus in excess of this limit being held over for addition to the surplus to be distributed in the following year, instead of being available for refund to the subscriber concerned in cash or for enhancement of the pension secured.

The requisitionists propose that the above proviso be repealed in view to a reversion to the practice of treating excess surplus as available for refund in cash or for enhancement of the pension assured.

Subscribers who cannot attend the above meeting have the right to vote by proxy; the votes to be valid should be stamped with a one anna stamp and registered in this office not later than the 9th June 1909.

There were 39 calm hours during the month. The resultant corresponding to the above numbers is represented by a S.E. wind, blowing with a uniform daily velocity of 86 miles.

Winds were lighter in strength and more northerly in direction than usual during March. The pressure distribution being persistently of the cold weather type, cooler nights than usual were experienced with very little interruption throughout the month at Madras and over a large part of the Presidency. The longshore winds which generally appear in some strength in this month were conspicuously absent.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Hon'ble SIR KHWAJA SALIMULLA asked :—

"Will the Government be pleased to have a statement prepared showing the number of permanent Muhammadan assistants (as distinct from copyists and typists) out of the total number of assistants in each of the Secretariat offices of the Government of India, with their pay and date of appointment, detailing separately those appointed after passing the competitive clerical examination and those appointed by pure nomination?"

The Hon'ble SIR HARVEY ADAMSON replied :—

"The statement asked for by the Hon'ble Member is laid upon the table*."

The Hon'ble SIR KHWAJA SALIMULLA asked :—

"Will Government also be pleased to say whether, under the rules framed in 1888 and modified from time to time for the recruitment of men for the Secretariat offices, some of the departments are entitled to recruit entirely by nomination and others are required to fill in one-half or two-thirds of the vacancies in that manner, and the remainder from among the passed candidates? If so, how many Mahommedans (as distinct from copyists and typists) have been appointed by pure nomination in comparison with the total number of appointments made in this manner during the same period?"

The Hon'ble SIR HARVEY ADAMSON replied :—

"Under the rules at present in force for the recruitment of clerks in the majority of the Government of India Secretariat offices, two-thirds of the appointments in the lower division are filled by open competition and one-third by nomination. In the Army Department and Military Supply Department one-third are filled by open competition and two-thirds by nomination, and in the Foreign Department all vacancies are filled by nomination. Appointments in the upper division are filled by promotion of clerks from the lower division or by nomination. A statement† is laid upon the table showing the number of Muhammadans who have been appointed by pure nomination since 1888, as compared with the total number of appointments made in this way."

FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR 1909–1910.

The Hon'ble SIR GUY FLEETWOOD WILSON introduced the Financial Statement for 1909–1910. He said :—"In accordance with the practice of recent years, I propose to lay as the table the Financial Statement for 1909–1910, and to explain in a few sentences its salient features.

"The year which is now coming to a close has been an unfortunate one. It began with famine in the United Provinces, and the adjoining areas of the Punjab, Central India and the Central Provinces, as well as in scattered parts of Bombay, Bengal and Madras. Although the autumn rainfall was on the whole sufficient, distress lingered in places, and has recently become acute again in Behar. The harvests fell short of expectation, and the people in Northern India suffered severely during the latter half of 1908 from an exceptionally violent epidemic of malarial fever. Trade did as badly as agriculture. Exports fell off very seriously in sympathy with the shortage in the harvests. Prices remained high; and imports continued to pour into markets which were already glutted. The balance of trade set sharply against India, and exchange dropped to gold point, at which it was maintained only by Government selling sterling bills on London for five months continuously, and to the extent of £6 millions.

"The combined effects of famine, high prices and bad trade affected our finances very adversely. Our net Railway revenue fell short of the Budget by 551 lakhs. Land Revenue brought in 40 lakhs less, and direct famine relief cost 20 lakhs more than had been provided. Compensation to low paid Government servants for the dearness of food cost us nearly 90 lakhs, and high prices also enhanced the expenditure for food and forage in the Military estimates.

"Other unforeseen charges which had to be met were 19 lakhs for the Mohmand Expedition, 41 lakhs in extra payment to the War Office as the outcome of Lord Roberts's Committee, and 11 lakhs for the improved scale of pay for the Indian Army which were introduced on the 1st January last. The whole of these additional Military burdens however were met by economies in the Military grants. We found unexpected assistance also in heavy receipts from Opium, which took the form chiefly of advance payments on the Malwa product in order to ensure priority of shipment against the restriction of exports which we are now enforcing.

"The net result of the year's finance is a deficit of no less than £3,720,000. It is the first deficit which our Indian budgets have shown since 1897–1898. It has imposed a great strain upon our cash balances, and it has turned the scale against the more ambitious programme of capital expenditure which we had hoped to be able to undertake next year.

"For the coming year, 1909–1910, the estimates have been framed with the closest regard to economy, and disclose a very small surplus of £230,000. This result has been reached without adding in any way to the taxation of the country.

"It assumes a return, though probably a slow return, to moderate prosperity, both in agriculture and trade; and it has necessitated the rejection of all expenditure which can reasonably be postponed or disallowed. I will not weary the Council with the detailed figures, which are given at length in the Statement.

"We propose to finance a capital programme of 15 crores for Railways and 1½ crores for Productive Irrigation works. It is our intention, subject to the usual reservations, to borrow 2½ crores in India; and the £3 millions of India bills which mature during the year in England will be renewed. The Secretary of State's drawings are taken at £15,200,000; but additional bills will be sold, so far as may be, should trade require them.

"It is to me a matter of genuine personal regret that, after the long series of prosperity budgets which my predecessors have unfolded, it should fall to my lot to record a year of marked financial depression, and to prepare a budget which involves a sharp curtailment of expenditure. I can only express a hope that the characteristic vitality of the Indian revenues will again assert itself, and prove our estimate to err if anything on the side of caution."

WHIPPING BILL.

The Hon'ble Sir HARVEY ADAMSON moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill further to amend the Whipping Act, 1864, and the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, be taken into consideration.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Sir HARVEY ADAMSON moved that the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the punishment of whipping be passed.

The Hon'ble Mr. DADABHOY said:—"My Lord, my excuse in interposing in this debate is the extreme importance of the subject. I feel I am in a position to speak with some authority on account of my fairly long experience at the Bar. I have had opportunities of closely watching the working of the Whipping Act during a long series of years, and my observations are mostly grounded upon personal knowledge.

"The Statement of Objects and Reasons does not enlighten this Council on the circumstances under which the amendment of the Whipping Act has been undertaken by Government. It only expresses the desire of Government to amend the law relating to whipping so as to restrict the group of offences for which that punishment might be inflicted and to limit the number of officials empowered to award it. The distinguished and respected Home Member in charge of the Bill, in asking leave to introduce it, only stated that in the progress of ideas the infliction of whipping as a form of judicial punishment had come to be regarded by the general public with ever-increasing disfavour, and that the object of the Bill was to mitigate the severity of flogging as a punishment and to bring the Whipping Act into line with the public opinion of the present day. It is not alleged that the Act as it stands is not humane or that there is anything specially revolting in the punishment of whipping.

"My Lord, I am not enamoured of the Bill in its present form. If the only excuse for undertaking this legislation is that whipping is extremely degrading and not suited to civilized times, that it is revolting to personal feelings and is absolutely in disfavour with the general public, there ought to be a policy of greater resolution and firmness than the one which has now been adopted. If whipping as a form of punishment is in disfavour as revolting to humanity, why not altogether abolish it from the Statute-book of our country? If, on the other hand, the working of the Act for nearly half-a-century has proved its justification and the desirability of its application to the conditions of Indian life, why do away with that salutary form of punishment merely because it does not meet with the approval of a section of public opinion which is swayed too much by abstract considerations of humanity in disregard of administrative necessity?

"As the Hon'ble Home Member has pointed out that whipping as a judicial punishment has come to be regarded with ever-increasing disfavour, and that is apparently the only justification for undertaking this legislation, I crave your Excellency's indulgence to review briefly the history of whipping legislation in this country with the object of proving that that form of punishment has always been regarded with disfavour by the general public; what is more, it has not had on all occasions unqualified official support. The majority of those who had anything to do with the legislation of 1864 had not much to say in its favour, while that distinguished body, the Law Commissioners, expressed themselves strongly against the measure. I need not refer to the dictums from time to time pronounced by Indian Judges of the Calcutta High Court, that according to native Indian sentiment whipping is a worse form of degrading and hardening punishment than imprisonment, and that the sentence of whipping once it is passed is calculated to do irreparable mischief, once administered it cannot be undone; the conviction may be reversed, but the injury cannot be repaired.

"It is well known that corporal punishment was one of the authorized modes of punishment in the Criminal Law of this country in the past. From its early history this form of punishment was in vogue throughout the whole of India; the Bombay and Madras Presidencies had it even during the East India Company's time and almost till the end of 1841. Lord William Bentinck, that just and sympathetic Viceroy, took upon himself the noble task of abolishing that form of punishment in Bengal in the year 1834 by Regulation II of that year; and that memorable Regulation did away with corporal punishment and urged in its stead the introduction of a better and more effective system of prison discipline as a deterrent against crimes. The Committee of Prison Discipline that was appointed two years later to make a full and careful investigation into the matter, after over two years' labour, in finally submitting its report, suggested many essential reforms and improvements. Some of them were ultimately carried out, but the object contemplated by Lord William Bentinck was not achieved. This was clear from the preamble of Act III of 1844, which reintroduced corporal punishment in the Bengal Presidency, and subsequently extended it from time to time into all the dominions acquired by Government. The re-introduction of corporal punishment was justified, as appears from the preamble of that Act, because in the matter of prison discipline improvements had not been effected. It was deemed expedient to provide flogging for certain offences. This state of things continued till May 1862 when the Indian Penal Code came into operation. It is noteworthy that though corporal punishment was abolished in Bengal in 1834, the Penal Code which embodied so completely the Criminal Law of the country did not provide whipping as a form of punishment. The draft Code was laid before the Governor General in Council as far back as 1837, but was not passed into law until nearly 25 years later. The distinguished Law Commission which was entrusted with the task of preparing the Code expressed its opinion on the subject of flogging in the Chapter on punishments in the following terms:—'We have not thought it desirable to place flogging in the list of punishments. Being satisfied that the punishment of flogging can be proper only in a few cases, and not being satisfied that it is necessary in any, we are unwilling to advise the Government to retrace its steps and to re-establish throughout the British territories a practice which, be a policy unquestionably humane and by no means proved to have been injudicious, has recently been abolished through a large part of these territories.' It was in this spirit and in language so emphatic that corporal punishment was entirely eliminated from the Indian Penal Code. For upwards of two decades the Code remained incomplete and unpassed. It was not until 1855 that it was referred to a Select Committee for a thorough overhaul and careful revision. The Select Committee, however, adopted a view contrary to the Law Commission and recommended, besides other modifications, that whipping should be included in the list of punishments authorized by the Code. Subsequently, when the Code came up for consideration before the Supreme Council, it was decided to invite the opinions of local officers and public bodies on the subject, particularly as the draft Code did not contain or include the punishment of flogging. It was deemed inexpedient to delay any further the passing of the Code, but simultaneously a Select Committee was appointed to fully consider the question, and to report on the desirability of providing flogging as a form of punishment in a separate Bill, supplementary to the Penal Code. As the result of their recommendation a Bill was drafted, introduced and discussed in Council, and passed as the 7th September 1861, but it failed to obtain the assent of Lord Canning, the Viceroy and Governor General of India. Lord Canning did not withhold his assent because he doubted the soundness or disapproved, of the principle of flogging, but because the Act teemed with many and serious defects in important details. The Act was not only vague, but failed to furnish a guide to Courts of Law; particularly, as there was no guarantee for the exercise of safe and judicious medical supervision.

"Lord Canning on the 5th February 1862 took the opportunity of giving his reasons for withholding his assent to the Bill of 1861. A new Bill was then introduced by Sir Cecil Beadon, the then Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, on lines more acceptable to Lord Canning, on the 26th February 1862, but that Council suspended its sittings for legislative purposes some time in April of that year, before the preliminary stages could be got through. In November of the same year, when the Council re-met, the Government of India thought it expedient to call for reports from Local Governments on the effect of the absence of corporal punishment from the Penal Code. I do not intend going into the details of the reports that were received from the various Local Governments. Suffice it to say, all Local Governments expressed a very strong opinion on the subject, and advised on grounds of necessity the retention of that form of punishment. It was pointed out that during the year 1862 nearly 20,000 persons had been committed to jail for various terms of imprisonment for offences for which they might have been flogged and discharged. The Select Committee in charge of the Bill of 1862, in view of the strong opinions expressed by the various Local Administrations about the necessity of the retention of whipping as a form of punishment, the attitude taken by Lord Canning, the then condition of the country, and the defective system of Jail administration, came to the conclusion that a Bill embodying suitable provisions was necessary, nay, indispensable. It accordingly prepared a Bill providing corporal punishment in a form which subsequently became the Act of 1864, the general whipping law of India.

"My Lord, from what I have stated above it is perfectly clear that there has been neither uniformity nor consistency in the policy of this Government with reference to whipping legislation. At one period corporal punishment was condemned as ineffective for the prevention of crime, degrading to culprits, branding them as it did with marks of infamy and doing them irreparable injury on account of the permanent stain inseparably connected with that form of punishment; and as it had the tendency to prevent the return of the culprit to an honest course of life, it was condemned as not being in consonance with the principles of enlightened legislation, incompatible with the rules of civilization, and shocking and brutalizing in its effect, as also for the firm and well-established opinion that, instead of reclaiming offenders, it not infrequently drowns them in the abyss of moral turpitude and degradation. I have shown above that corporal punishment remained actually abolished from 1834 to 1837, and that the opinion of the Law Commissioners was given after a long experience of that form of punishment and nearly after four years' experience of the effect of its abolition. It was partially re-introduced in the year 1844, subsequently, during the Mutiny, when prisons were broken open and destroyed, the limitations which had been placed on that form of punishment had to be temporarily suspended; later on, it was incorporated in the draft of the Indian Penal Code only to be excised from it during consideration. Mr Harrington's Flogging Bill did not linger long but died a speedy death, and Sir Cecil Beadon's Bill, which subsequently became the law of 1864, made a great change and incorporated corporal punishment permanently and finally in the Criminal Law of this country. It was very properly remarked by Sir Charles Trevelyan that 'there has been a see-saw legislation on the subject adapted to the circumstances of the times'.

"My Lord, I have not been able to gauge the reasons or to ascertain the policy that have led the Government to embark now upon this legislation in its present form. I have read the opinions expressed by several High Courts and District Officers, many of whom speak with their intimate acquaintance with the subject. Their observations, wherever founded on experience, are entitled to serious consideration. I find that the general body of official opinion is opposed to the amendments contemplated in the Bill. My Lord, though my personal feelings are against any system of corporal punishment, I must state that the present law has a deterrent effect on old and habitual offenders. I need not be reminded that a hardened criminal makes light of the prospect of flogging; that is ordinarily the case to be sure. But I have known of many cases where the criminals have begged for a commutation of sentence and for a further term of imprisonment in lieu of flogging. It is true that on the general question of penal whipping there have been and there always will be divergent opinions; there are two sides to the question, one the practical and the other sentimental. Some people frankly appreciate its deterrent effect, the good results it yields, the suitability of the punishment in certain cases in lieu of imprisonment, and the economy from a State point of view, and admit that slight physical pain is preferable to months and years of undesirable incarceration in jail and association with hardened criminals. There are others again who see nothing but the degradation and the physical suffering. Unfortunately the right point of view is not always taken. We fail to consider the nature of the man, and what is best calculated to bring him round. On proof of guilt we ought to consider what will be best for him, what will prevent him from repeating the act and persisting in his former evil course, and what punishment will best serve to protect society from similar offences. I hope I shall be pardoned if I venture to say that the present solicitude of the Government of India for the criminal classes is entirely misplaced. It is giving way too much to sentimental objections, and rather unduly restricting the operation of the Whipping Act. It is true that in England at the present time the force of public opinion has practically abolished the punishment of whipping, but it would be hardly correct to compare England with India where there is not much of healthy public opinion and social refinement, both being confined to educated classes and the professions. Philanthropists, proceeding only upon à priori reasoning, in season and out of season, decry the degrading and demoralising effect of whipping on society, especially on the criminals undergoing flogging. But experience shows it has a wholesome effect upon some criminals, and a decidedly deterrent effect upon juvenile offenders.

"My Lord, I gravely doubt if whipping is altogether wrong on principle. In determining the question of the comparative effects of whipping and imprisonment the fact must not be lost sight of that the jail of the present day is not an inconvenient place to live in for a class of habitual offenders. These usually belong to the lowest classes. Jail life to them is comparatively more comfortable, the food provided is decidedly better than what they are accustomed to, the most scrupulous care is bestowed upon their health and sanitary and labour regulations are based on an approved and enlightened principle. Much as I detest the system of flogging I am afraid further restrictions upon whipping will remove in certain cases almost the only form of punishment which is regarded with some degree of fear by habitual and professional convicts. I would not be surprised if, as the result, crime against property would increase. I am not aware, neither as the Honourable Home Member informed us, if there has been any general abuse of the powers under the Whipping Act during the last few years. If my memory does not fail me, I believe the punishment of whipping is not even at present freely inflicted. I have also no hesitation in stating that as far as I am aware, no recognised or well-informed public opinion is opposed to the infliction of such punishment on old and confirmed offenders. I have never heard it said that subordinate Magistrates as a class freely award this punishment, but rather it is the experience of many that they shrink slightly, if not too much, from resorting to this method of punishment. I have often heard Divisional and District Magistrates complain that the jails are crowded with undesirable people who could have been discharged with a few stripes. I think any one with any knowledge of our jail system is bound to admit that, except for the educated and the respected classes, prison life is not as trying or distasteful as it might on abstract considerations be supposed to be, and that to the average convict of the lower class imprisonment is not a punishment, but practically a small inconvenience; if life in jail does not offer him greater comforts and smaller hours of labour than life outside it, at any rate the jail affords him a shelter and saves him from starvation. Imprisonment alone does not sufficiently deter the criminal from committing serious offences against person and property, and I must confess I am not wholly in favour of the Bill as amended by the Select Committee. In my opinion the country has not yet attained to such a state of advancement and refinement as to entirely or in a great measure render unnecessary the retention of whipping as a judicial punishment. I cannot think the fact that the Bill when it becomes law will remove in some cases a very effective deterrent, practically the only deterrent in the present low state of the depressed classes, both materially and morally. My Lord, I am fully prepared to admit that the amendments now embodied in the Bill are justifiable on grounds of humanity in so far as they narrow the groups of offences for which the punishment of whipping should be awarded and place the power of whipping in the hands of a more limited number of officials. Admitting as I do that, I cannot shake off the conviction that the proposed changes will materially weaken the arm of the law without appreciably ameliorating the system of punishments. It is an open secret that the present amendment is the outcome of representations by men, doubtless estimable and philanthropic, but a bit too much influenced in their opinions by general ethical principles, and apt to overlook the condition of the society to which criminals belong.

"My Lord, I beg I should not be misunderstood. I welcome just, reasonable and salutary restrictions on the Whipping Act; I am not averse to a reasonable and judicious curtailment of powers. In my observations about the desirability of whipping as a judicial punishment I have only the criminal classes in view. They do not apply to the case of the unhappy man who have per chance got into trouble in a Criminal Court. Their case is entirely different, deserving of the utmost care and consideration. All I deprecate is the abolition of the punishment for some of the heinous offences. It has not been shown that the Whipping Act has been misused to any appreciable extent, and proper data have not been placed before this Council for a correct judgment as to the propriety of the deletion of some of the salutary provisions. I warmly appreciate the motives of Government in undertaking legislation on the subject, impelled as it obviously is by a just and humanitarian desire to mitigate the severity of the existing law by curtailing the scope of its operation and placing the administration of it in the hands of senior and capable officials who may be expected to be possessed of larger experience and greater knowledge of the condition of the people. I am not opposed to the Bill in so far as it tends to mitigate the severity of the existing Statute. I shall welcome the day when whipping is wholly abolished, not only in England, but also in this country. I am fully aware that if any branch of the Criminal Law deserves the best and serious consideration of Government, it is the Whipping Act, as the people here are by nature sensitive and sentimental, and by tradition and habit disposed to look upon with horror and abhorrence as this form of punishment. But I cannot help stating that the compromise which the revised Bill makes between the existing law of whipping and the total abolition of that form of punishment is not one which will commend itself to many in this country. The Bill utterly emasculates the Whipping Law so as to render it useless for deterrent purposes, so much so that it was a question whether it might not be simpler to abolish whipping altogether except for juveniles. It can open to the charge of incompleteness; it is also assailable on the ground of inconsistency. It can be urged with a great deal of force and reason that the policy of abolishing whipping for certain offences while retaining it for kindred offences is illogical, and objectionable. It is true that in certain directions the Whipping Act stands in urgent need of liberal revision, but the Bill under review, though an improvement on the first, does not come up to general public expectation, at the same time that it proposes to abolish whipping in many cases where it has a very wholesome and deterrent effect. I fail to see why a starving man who steals a loaf from a baker's shop should get stripes while a clerk who systematically defrauds his master and tampers with his books should be exempted from that form of punishment; or why a stray pickpocket who defends the passer-by of his gold chain should be more sensibly treated than the unscrupulous, but withal prosperous, goldsmith who receives it for a song and melts it down in the purity and privacy of his family furnace, or why, again, a notorious city budmash, who battens on the inoffensive populace by acts of extortion, should be less severely dealt with than the perpetrator of a petty theft. On principle, my Lord, it is difficult to see any moral difference in the acts of a man who commits a petty theft and the receiver who has probably instigated him to commit the offence. I am unable to follow the reasoning that the thief who is a servant or a clerk should be, in the eye of the law, regarded differently to and more considerately than the thief who is not a clerk or a servant. I should have thought that the offence of the receiver and the servant was much more heinous and there was a greater degree of moral turpitude in it. An instigator of theft or dacoity trading in ill-gotten property and a trusted clerk or servant abusing the confidence placed in him and defrauding his master in that capacity is a far more despicable offender than the thief employed or an ordinary cheat. On principle the extortioner and the receiver of stolen property are worse pests to society than an ordinary thief; and it may be fairly said that the policy of abolishing the sentence of whipping for those offences is one of questionable expediency. But, curiously, and any one conversant with the administration of Criminal Law in this country will bear me out that whipping is very rarely awarded by Magistrates for the offences of extortion and receiving stolen property. The proposed amendment of the law thus follows the line adopted by the Magistracy generally in practice so far as these offences are concerned. In my professional experience, not unlike others, I have found that a large percentage of cases under section 411 of the Indian Penal Code are really acts of theft and burglary, and only started because it is often difficult to obtain conclusive evidence of theft even when property has been fully traced. I must also confess that it is very difficult to understand the principle on which dacoity may be punished with corporal punishment while robbery is exempted from the operation of the Act. It is true that robbery is, generally speaking, a less aggravated form of offence and less heinous than dacoity; but it is difficult to understand why five men who commit a dacoity should be whipped while four men who commit a robbery, perhaps with the same degree of intrepidity, organization, and preparation should escape that form of punishment. I am surprised to see whipping abolished for assaults and use of criminal force upon women with intent to outrage their modesty. That is a very necessary direction in which the punishment can be inflicted with wholesome effect, and clause 5 of section 4 of the Act of 1864 has the sanction and approval of the Indian public. The absence of that clause in the Bill can only be viewed with disappointment. I am glad to find that the Bill deals with acts of rape and dacoity which are in the nature of very serious offences. But, my Lord, it is only in a few of such cases that a sentence of less than five years' imprisonment is passed on conviction. If the sentence of imprisonment exceeds five years, under the provision of section 395 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, it is not permissible to pass any sentence of whipping. It is clear that despite the most anxious desire of Government to deal severely with offenders in cases of rape, in practice section 4 of the Bill will be rendered impotent, as its provision can scarcely be resorted to in view of section 395 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. My Lord, it would therefore be necessary, in order to give full effect to section 4 of the Bill, to repeal so much of clause (b) of section 395 of the Code of Criminal Procedure as prohibits the infliction of whipping in addition to a sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding five years in cases of rape and dacoity. It may be argued that whipping in lieu of or in addition to any other punishment as provided by sections 3 and 4 of the Act of 1864 is ineffective as a deterrent. However much old and confirmed offenders may detest and dread the punishment of whipping, its salutary effect on a deterrent, when it is combined with a sentence of imprisonment, will wear off by the period the sentence runs out, and flogging in addition to imprisonment is scarcely useful and may safely be dispensed with. But whipping in addition to other punishments in case of habitual offenders will, ordinarily, prove a very valuable means of increasing the terror of the punishment. It is doubtful, however, if the system of concurrent punishments has any appreciable effect on the minds of incorrigible offenders. But be that as it may, I certainly approve of the retention of that form of punishment in cases of rape and unnatural offences. I would go further and advise the infliction of whipping, as pointed out above, for offences under section 354 of the Indian Penal Code. Women always require extra protection, and when the utter helplessness of Indian women is considered the need for extra severity becomes acute. The repeal of section 3 of the existing Act appears to be a reform in the right direction; but the action is slightly inconsistent with the principle of section 4 of the Bill. Whipping will still remain an additional punishment for other offences under that section, and if it can be inflicted on accused under section 3 for certain offences in lieu of imprisonment, and in lieu of or in addition to any other punishment under section 4, it seems illogical, if not questionable, to exclude it from the punishments for the same offence committed again and again. But if we accept the principle that the number of offences for which whipping can be awarded in lieu of or in addition to imprisonment must be reduced, I am decidedly of opinion that the curtailment of the power in case of a second conviction will be neither injudicious nor unsafe. I welcome the exclusion of political offences from the purview of the Bill. I do think the educated but misguided people who alone are likely to commit such offences are not the right sort of persons to receive this punishment. The limitation of the number of stripes to fifteen in the case of juvenile offenders is wise and humane also.

"My Lord, I fail to realize what urgency there was to disqualify Second Class Magistrates for the exercise of the powers of whipping under the present law. It is only when specially empowered by the Local Government that a Magistrate of the Second Class can pass sentence of whipping. Has it come to pass that the Local Governments have failed to exercise sound discretion in vesting Second Class Magistrates with powers under the Act, or has any doubt been felt about the competency of that class of Magistrates as a body to exercise powers under the Act judiciously? It does not stand to reason that it would not be possible for Local Governments to empower carefully-selected Magistrates of the Second Class to pass sentence of whipping. If discretion is left to Local Governments to empower officers fit for the proper exercise of the special powers, it is more likely that a selection would be made on a basis of merit and qualification than in cases where powers are armed by Magistrates by superiority of class only, albeit many among them are wanting not only in tact and judicial ability but often in experience and knowledge of local conditions. I have heard it said that in the present condition of things it would be highly undesirable to curtail the powers of Magistrates. I attach no importance to such apprehensions, and I entertain no misgivings as to the capacity and the strength of the Government to cope with crime, appear as it might to over-sanguine a form. I do not plead so much for the Magistrates concerned. I deplore this change in the interests of the victim himself and I submit this amendment is wholly unnecessary and open to grave objection. I can speak with some degree of authority so far as the Province I have the honour to represent in this Council is concerned, and I unhesitatingly say that the power of delegation has been used with great success and discrimination in the past, and the Second Class Magistrates specially empowered generally use their powers with discretion. I can also state that they as a body seem rather to err on the side of leniency and are more reluctant to inflict whipping than to resort to it. There is no suggestion of an abuse of power by Second Class Magistrates. Disqualification of the whole class will obviously be an unmerited slur upon them and a source of considerable trouble and harassment to the poor offender. It is therefore as much in the interests of the unfortunate victim of whipping as out of regard for the fair name of the Subordinate Service that I deplore the proposed modification of the law. In practice almost all cases in which whipping would be preferable to imprisonment in the first instance generally come up for trial before Second Class Magistrates, and imagine the inconvenience, the delay, and the duplication of administrative work that will ensue upon references under section 349 of the Criminal Procedure Code to First Class Magistrates for sentence. In times of famine and periodical rioting, which are not infrequent in this country, whipping has been considered a most appropriate punishment for petty thefts and assaults, especially in the case of juvenile offenders; and it will certainly cause a great deal of inconvenience if that class of offenders have to be sent up for the sole purpose of receiving punishment in consequence of the limitation of the power to First Class Magistrates only. In effecting this alteration in the law the fact has been overlooked that most of the offences contemplated in section 3 of the Bill under review will be triable only by Second Class Magistrates. There will be considerable difficulty for officers, and the extra duties of the police will become far more onerous in view of the unavoidable increase in the number of references under section 349 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The work will probably increase tenfold; it will divert the attention of First Class Magistrates from far weightier judicial and administrative work. These will be called upon to dispose of petty cases which should also be left to the Subordinate Magistracy. It will hence much waste of valuable time and money. And the effect of the change upon the accused will be that the chances of whipping will be enormously increased, and untold hardships, inconveniences, and undesirable incarceration will be entailed upon them. They will be practically in police custody for a week or ten days, and will have to submit to the attendant evil consequences. Local Governments will find it not only imperative to increase the strength of the police, but will require a much larger number of Magistrates with First Class powers. In the case of juvenile offenders the inconvenience and hardship and misery will be still greater and out of all proportion to the petty nature of the offences. Imagine the misery of a boy under 12 years taken by the police several days' journey away from his native village for no other purpose than to receive half a dozen stripes for stealing an ecce worth of sweets or fruit in the local bazaar. What a misery to his relations also. My lord, I deprecate the change because the precious time of First Class Magistrates will be wasted in dealing with petty cases, because juvenile offenders will be put to inconceivable harassment and hardship and will not be set at liberty with the least possible delay, because it will entail not only extra work on Magistrates of the First Class but expense and loss of energy on the State and inconvenience on the convict, himself, further, because the amendment will have the effect of unnecessarily transferring to the Sub-Divisional Magistrate petty cases under the Forest and other special laws in which whipping would appear to be the most appropriate form of punishment, and, finally, because it has the effect of condemning the whole body of the Subordinate Magistracy, many among whom I have found from my personal observation are men of sufficient learning and experience, and fit to be trusted with powers under the Act, and who may be depended upon to use them with circumspection and judicial discretion. The difficulties of the new arrangement appear to me so great, so varied, and so troublesome that Government will sooner or later have to choose between the alternatives of either altogether abolishing the punishment for petty offences or of reverting to the present system.

"My Lord, the striking peculiarity of the present Bill is that, despite the desire of Government to mitigate the severity of the existing law, no provision is made for the revision by the Appellate Court of erroneous sentences of whipping. In almost all criminal cases, except in summary trials and in cases where the punishment of imprisonment awarded by First Class Magistrates is one month or the fine inflicted is Rs. 50, the accused is allowed the right of appeal; but it seems to be an anomaly of the law that he is not permitted to appeal against a sentence of whipping. The sentence is carried out immediately on conviction. This is one of the main reasons why a sentence of whipping is so much in disfavour with the general public. I feel convinced that if the right of appeal be granted, this form of punishment would cease to be so odious and unpopular. It would at the same time save the Magistrate from adverse criticism, and give general satisfaction. The law, as it stands at present, is obviously incongruous. It is difficult to understand why section 391 of the Code of Criminal Procedure should provide for stay of execution for a fortnight or till the result of appeal in cases where the accused is sentenced to whipping in addition to imprisonment, and refuse similar concession in cases where the sentence is one of whipping only. There is provision in the law, it is true, for revision by the High Court of all sentences, but the concession is unreal so far as whipping is concerned. The whipping, under section 390 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is inflicted almost forthwith; at any rate, long before the High Court can even be moved. And once the punishment is inflicted it is a matter of comparative indifference to the accused if the sentence is ultimately reversed by the High Court. It must be a matter of common knowledge that in not a few cases the sentence of whipping is eventually either wholly set aside or altered or modified, but the accused having already undergone the punishment, after the fortnight contemplated in section 391 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the result is that many people, though found innocent by the Superior Court, suffer for the indiscretion of the Lower Courts. The setting aside of the order in many cases thus proves infructuous and illusory. The ultimate acquittal cannot help the poor victim: it cannot undo the wrong done to him; it cannot make any reparation for the suffering and the degradation undergone, for the stigma left permanently by that punishment. It also happens, not unoften, that people dissatisfied with and aggrieved by perverse convictions, who would otherwise have gone up to higher tribunals for redress, have perforce to submit to their hard lot. It seems to me to be a peculiarly unfortunate and inexplicable arrangement that while time is granted for payment of fines, there is unceremonious haste in executing a sentence of whipping. My Lord, I have heard it stated in connection with this that a demand for an appeal is based on a misconception of the object of a sentence of whipping only. Whipping is supposed much lighter than a short term of imprisonment, and more is given to save the accused from harassment and degradation through association with hardened criminals in jails and since the risk of error of judgment is so small, it is only proper that finality should attach to the orders of the Magistracy on this head. It is therefore that under sections 413 and 414 of Act V of 1898 no appeal lies against a sentence of whipping only. I am afraid I cannot accept the proposition that the risk is very small where a First Class Magistrate inflicts a sentence of whipping. It would certainly increase the salutary effect of this form of corporal punishment, both as a wholesome deterrent and as the means of saving the accused from contamination in jail through association with criminals, if the accused realises the issues of the sentence by an appeal to a Superior Court. It will not matter much if execution has to be suspended till the result of the appeal. If Courts are apt to err with regard to bigger offences and severer sentences, there is no reason to imagine they would not err in their decisions in cases of comparatively smaller offences. These decisions are of equal importance to the persons immediately concerned. I am therefore of opinion that the strong public feeling in favour of the stay of execution of a sentence of whipping only to allow time for the testing of the correctness of the decision is not without ample justification. Some sort of opportunity ought certainly to be given to the victim of establishing his innocence and averting, if possible, the physical suffering and the mental agony which that punishment necessarily implies.

"My Lord, I approve of the decision arrived at by the Select Committee, in view of the extensive changes contemplated, to repeal wholly the Act of 1864, and to present a complete and consolidating Bill. Since 1864 at successive periods many important changes have been made in the Act, and it is expedient now to re-enact the law on the subject of whipping as a judicial punishment instead of further amending the old Act. It is certainly more advantageous to give the country a consolidated Whipping Act than to put Judges and Magistrates to the necessity of constantly looking into a Statute replete with amendments and excisions. I would also suggest in connection with the re-enactment of the law the expediency of carefully considering the rules regulating the mode of inflicting whipping which are now in force. My Lord, I had intended to move amendments on the lines suggested above, but doubt, knowing as I do that the general feeling among the Hon'ble Members is opposed to them. I am reluctant to further take up the time of the Council by proposing amendments that are sure to fall through.

"My Lord, before I close I must allude to one other point intimately connected with the present subject. I feel I should not be doing my duty if I failed to draw your attention to it. Whipping is also inflicted inside the jails under the Prisons Act. Certain acts of convicts are declared to be prison offences, and the law empowers the Superintendent to inflict, among other forms of punishment, whipping, provided the number of stripes do not exceed thirty. It is a well-known fact that this punishment is frequently awarded as a disciplinary measure for misbehaviour, disorderly conduct, neglect, disobedience, and dereliction of prison duties. In my humble opinion no amendment of the Whipping Act can be complete or can produce any appreciable good, or can attain the end which the Government has in view of conciliating public opinion, without a corresponding modification of the Prisons Act. Such a modification is urgent on grounds of uniformity and consistency in legislation as much as on those of humanity. Any abuse of the powers under the Whipping Law can be checked and corrected by a strong expression of public opinion, inasmuch as the sentences are executed and the flogging is administered in the broad light of the day; but where this punishment is given by jail authorities inside the jail precincts the Jail Superintendent is the master of the situation and the sole judge of the propriety of the order; his acts are not open to public observation and criticism. There is, therefore, a considerable risk of the power vested in him by the Prisons Act being exercised in an ill-judged manner, improper, and indiscriminate manner. My Lord, it seems to me an anomalous departure in legislation to deprive of the power Second Class Magistrates of experience and judicial training, who can only act after recording evidence and giving reasons for a conviction, and to leave the Jail superintendent in possession of plenary powers to summarily pass orders of whipping on the testimony of his warders and ill-educated assistants. Though the amendment of the whipping legislation has been undertaken in deference to public opinion, and not so much for the intrinsic merits of the subject and from considerations of administrative necessity, it may well be expected that this work of humanity in which the Government is engaged will be done thoroughly and carried to its logical and legitimate end. It is true there has not been a loud demand for an amendment of the Prisons Act. From the necessities of the case there could not be. So few people know of all that passes inside the jail. But if the philanthropic work which the Government has taken in hand becomes exigent, notwithstanding the comparative indifference of the public to this important matter. A considerate concession by Government will be appreciated by the people, will take away much of the odium of whipping, and will ensure popular co-operation in the administration of this somewhat unpopular law." I fail to see how Government could possibly avoid a considerable modification of the powers under the Prisons Act after it has once decided to recast the Whipping Act on more humane lines. I confidently trust that in the same spirit in which this legislation has been undertaken the Government of India will now move without delay for the mitigation of the severity of flogging under the Prisons Act, and thereby justify its traditional claim to justice, humanity, consistency, and forbearance and earn the gratitude of the nation."

The Hon'ble Sir KHWAJA SALIMULLA said:—"My Lord, I shall vote for the passing of this Bill, but I cannot allow it to be passed without recording my humble protest at the way this piece of legislation has been, virtually, forced upon the Government at the instance of irresponsible members of the Ultra-Radical Party in the House of Commons, who hold the brief for, what I may term, the Home Rule Party in India; for we all know that when the Presidency Magistrate of Calcutta used his powers under the Whipping Act against certain youthful political offenders, agitation in this country was set on foot and a furore was created in the House of Commons, and in a moment of weakness the Secretary of State promised that this power would be removed.

"We do not see any valid or tangible reason has been advanced by my Hon'ble friend who has introduced this Bill; we cannot, however, deny that consolidation of certain Acts such as the one before us, is desirable, but there are many other Acts of the legislature which need this process more than the various Acts this Bill, when passed, will consolidate. Not only do we find no reasons given, but we see from the papers before us that no one in India appears to have demanded the amendments now to be made, while some of the Governments have gone so far as to openly protest against the change. We find the principal amendment of the Bill to be strongly opposed by all the most competent Magistrates and authorities in the country, some at whom have boldly stated that the Act to be passed is the outcome of representation from England by people arguing on general principle and with no experience of the East, and I agree with the Magistrate of Jhansi that 'the proposal to abolish whipping as clauses 2 and 3 appears to be merely pandering to a spirit of mawkish sentimentality that has grown up in a certain class in England owing to their having lived so as to be absolutely unacquainted with the classes that commit the crimes, whipping for which it is proposed to abolish; a spirit which a certain more or less educated class in India has chosen to imitate.'

"That the Government of India, fully aware as they are of the great public inconvenience these modifications of the Whipping Act will entail, such for instance as the taking away of the authority of Government to confer the power of whipping on competent and able Second Class Magistrates, should nevertheless at the bidding of the Home authorities pass a piece of legislation quite unasked in the present time, when the hands of the Magistracy ought rather to be strengthened than crippled, is a matter against which I desire to record my protest and to express my hope that the Government will not make it a precedent. I am respectfully of opinion that legislation in this country should take its initiative from the Government of India and not at the instance of the Home authorities. I had intended to criticize this Bill in detail, but my Hon'ble friend Mr. Dadabhoy has left nothing for me to add to the observations I have just made."

The Hon'ble Sir HARVEY ADAMSON said:—"My Lord, I have listened with close attention to my Hon'ble friend Mr. Dadabhoy, but I confess that I do not quite understand his attitude towards the Bill, and I am not sure whether he thinks that the Bill goes too far or that it does not go far enough in relaxing the severity of whipping. He says that he is not opposed to the Bill in so far as it tends to mitigate the severity of the existing statute, but he then goes on to cite a number of offences for which he would prefer to retain the punishment of whipping. He says that the Bill is open to the charge of incompleteness and that it is assailable on the ground of inconsistency. In introducing the Bill I explained the general principles which guided the Government of India in determining whether the punishment of whipping should be attached to an offence, and I may here briefly recapitulate them. They are—

(1) that so long as the system of prison administration in India is one of association and not of segregation, it is necessary, for the protection of first offenders from contaminating influences, to retain whipping as a punishment for theft and kindred offences;
(2) that whipping is an unnecessary punishment for offences that are not of an active or daring character;
(3) that whipping should not be inflicted in cases where it is likely to outrage self-respect;
(4) that whipping is peculiarly suited to brutal, cruel and sordid offences involving personal violence;
(5) that where offences are not of this nature it is unnecessary to add whipping to imprisonment on a second conviction;
(6) that whipping is a suitable punishment for juvenile offenders when administered with moderation.

"These principles are intelligible, and I venture to think that they commend themselves to public opinion. But when it comes to apportioning in accordance with abstract principles the offences under the Indian Penal Code, each of which contains many varying shades of moral obliquity, it is evident that mathematical precision is unattainable, and I daresay that wherever apportionment may be made there will be some colour for a charge of inconsistency. Applying these principles to the specific instances in which the Hon'ble Member twits us with inconsistency, I think it will be found that they considerably enlighten the situation. They explain for instance why the common thief should be whipped while the clerk is exempt, and why the active thief is distinguished from the passive receiver of stolen property. It is true, as the Hon'ble Member has put it, a question of the heinousness of the offence. I fully admit that the trusted clerk or servant who defrauds his master commits a more heinous offence than the common thief, and that the receiver often deserves greater punishment than the person whom he has instigated to steal. It is a question of the nature not of the severity of the punishment. The clerk and the receiver can still be punished with greater severity than the casual thief. But I submit that under the principles which I have stated, which are reasonable and proper principles, the nature of the punishments should differ.

"The Hon'ble Member, and many others, have objected to the exclusion from whipping of offences under section 354 of the Indian Penal Code, which relates to assault or the use of criminal force to women. The reason for the exclusion is that the section comprises many offences of a very petty character. Touching a woman's cheek or grasping her hand may be offences under this section, and I do not think that any one will urge that such trifling misdemeanours should be punished with whipping. Those who desire the inclusion of whipping have in their minds the more aggravated forms of assault, amounting to attempt to ravish a woman. I quite admit that an offence of this nature would be appropriately punished with whipping, but it is not properly an offence under this section. It is an attempt to commit rape which under clause 4 of the Bill is made punishable with whipping in lieu of or addition to other punishment.

"In answer to the Hon'ble Sir Khwaja Salimulla, I may say that I have no faith in the argument that such mitigation of the severity of whipping as we have embodied in this Bill will weaken the hands of the authorities in the suppression of crime. This is the old stock argument that has been put forward on every occasion and in every country whenever attempts have been made to relax the severity of punishment, and the history of crime has shown that it is quite fallacious.

"The Hon'ble Mr. Dadabhoy urges that there should be provision for an appeal against sentences of whipping, where whipping is the sole punishment. An appeal of course already lies in all cases where whipping is combined with imprisonment. I may be permitted to rectify a slight ambiguity in the Hon'ble Member's language with regard to these cases. When an appeal has been presented the sentence of whipping cannot in any case be carried out until it has been confirmed by the Appellate Court, and this is quite independent of the period of fifteen days mentioned in section 381 of the Criminal Procedure Code. But a sentence of whipping alone is on entirely different ground. When a person is sentenced to whipping he must obviously be kept in custody until the sentence has been inflicted. A provision for appeal would thus have the effect of adding imprisonment to the sentence of whipping. It would also defeat the object of whipping in such cases inasmuch as it would subject the prisoner to the contamination of jail life, the very thing which it is desired to avoid. The only condition under which a sole sentence of whipping can be justified is that it shall be inflicted summarily.

"Two Hon'ble Members have taken strong exception to the provision of the Bill which excludes specially empowered Second Class Magistrates who now exercise powers of whipping from doing so in future. Local Governments also take exception to this provision, which I may say was inflicted by the Secretary of State and not by the Government of India. The objections were fully represented to the Secretary of State, who after considering them adhered to his original view, and left an option to the Government of India in the matter. I cannot conceal my apprehension that the restriction will cause considerable inconvenience. It can be met to some extent by a freer resort to the power of releasing first offenders upon probation of good conduct under the provisions of section 562 of the Criminal Procedure Code, a power which might well be used more frequently than is done at present.

"The Hon'ble Mr Dadabhoy has expressed the opinion that no amendment of the Whipping Act can conciliate public opinion without a corresponding modification of the Prisons Act. I venture to think that the Hon'ble Member cannot have the slightest conception of the vast strides in the path of humanity that have been taken during the past thirty years in the jails of India in respect of corporal punishment. The Prisons Act of 1894 provides that no punishment of whipping shall be awarded until the Superintendent has recorded the substance of the evidence of the witnesses, the defence of the prisoner, and the finding with the reasons thereof. The Jail Manuals forbid recourse to whipping except for serious offences or continued recalcitrant behaviour. The exercise of his whipping powers by a Superintendent is most jealously watched by his departmental superiors. The whole tendency of the jail administration is to make as little use of this form of punishment as possible, and no part of a Superintendent's work receives closer scrutiny at the hands of his Inspector-General and the Local Government than the way in which he exercises this power. I will not content myself with general statements but will add statistics, and I think the figures which I am about to quote will be a complete surprise to the Hon'ble Member. In 1878 and 1879 the total numbers of whippings in Indian jails were 21,015 and 21,737 respectively. In 1905 and 1906 they were 799 and 865. It is, therefore, abundantly clear that no fresh legislation is required in order to secure moderation in the infliction of corporal punishment in jails. The remarkable mitigation of the severity of whipping in jails has, as I stated in introducing the Bill, been accompanied by an improvement of discipline. I hope that these facts and figures may tend to allay the fears of those who think that the moderate relaxations contained in this Bill will imperil the maintenance of peace and order."
